● Good innit? Thought you'd like to see this snapshot of me and the gvnor Roger de Courcy — he's the one with the longer whiskers — outside this flippin' great working man's club in America. Actually, it's the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas, where me and the boss 'ave just finished a season with that vicar bloke... the Dean Martin. Tell you the truth, I was a bit worried when we got the booking for winning the 1976 Grand Final of ATV's "New Faces" show. When I heard that the Dean was on the show, I thought we must be doing some sort of church hall function. I even thought that MGM stood for Methodist Great Mission. Still I was wrong... and that Dean fellow's a nice bloke. 'E must be... 'cos he said we were so successful during our appearances there, that he's personally invited us back for a further season with 'im which we're hoping to take up in the New Year. I don't believe a word of it myself. I think the boss must have fixed his drink, or slipped him a fiver. Anyway, better go now... I'm up to me ears in rehearsals for our new Christmas Show — "Roger de Courcy and Nookie's Christmas Show" — which opens for a season at the Princess Theatre, Torquay on December 24. Good, innit?
